

From left, Joanna Mansfield, Lori Wasserman and Alexandra Sipos-Kocsis were among the 150 participants in this year's Tu b'Shvat seder run by Torat HaTeva, a Jewish environmental organization. The Kabbalah-based event at Anshei Minsk Congregation explored Jewish texts and teachings relating to trees, food and the natural world, and featured organic fruits, nuts, juice and cookies, as well as drumming, singing and dancing. [Joanne Frisch photo]